

A hunter sees a Bigfoot in Idaho, on October 2016

On October 7, 2016, a witness was hunting near the town of Pocatello, Bingham County, Idaho. He thinks he took a picture of a Bigfoot.

The man has told his story on BFRO website:

“I was hunting in southeast Idaho in the fall of 2016. I saw a moose cross the road and took a few pictures of it. The moose was walking up hill into a brush patch. The moose put his head down as he went into the brush. I was taking pictures through my spotting scope. I was whistling to try to get the moose to stop so I could get a good picture. My whistles were returned by something. 5 whistles. I know it wasn't the moose that whistled back at me. There was something in that brush patch. I could see eyes in the brush patch. I got a couple pictures but they are fairly grainy pictures.”

“I found a 17" hair the year before near a dead moose. There are at least 4 dead moose or cows in this draw. These have been dead for at least a year. Bones are scattered about.”

“My Dad and his brother saw what they thought was a Bigfoot about 5-8 miles south from this location about 1945.

They said it was well above the willows. The willows were about 6 feet tall.

Screams have been heard.”
