

A UFO filmed by the army in 2018 in Iraq

Stunning new images have recently surfaced, reigniting the controversy surrounding the reality of unidentified flying objects (UFOs). The footage, unveiled by UFO expert Jeremy Corbell, allegedly originates from sources within the U.S. intelligence community.

The videos capture a mysterious object, invisible to the naked eye, traversing both air and water near a military base. Only thermal cameras can detect the craft by registering the temperature fluctuations it emits, shifting intermittently from black to white.

According to Jeremy Corbell, these images were captured in 2018 by military personnel tasked with tracking and identifying this strange aerial presence. The footage shows the object submerging into the water for 17 minutes before suddenly reemerging and accelerating at a 45-degree angle.

Its behavior is highly anomalous, describes the UFO expert. It abruptly descends into the water, then hovers motionless for an extended period before suddenly darting off at an extreme velocity on an upward trajectory.

Jeremy Corbell, an investigative journalist and filmmaker, vouches for the authenticity of these images, stating he obtained them from sources who took significant risks to provide the material. This revelation is part of his upcoming documentary "TMZ Presents: UFO Revolution" which aims to unravel the mystery surrounding UFOs and understand what they represent for humanity.
