

Some people predicted the Coronavirus pandemic

Syliva Browne (1936 – 2013) was a famous American author and medium with psychic abilities. In 2008, she wrote a book where she predicted the Coronavirus.

In her book 'End of Days: Predictions and Prophecies About the End of the World', she wrote:

“In around 2020 a severe pneumonia-like illness will spread throughout the globe, attacking the lungs and bronchial tubes and resisting all known treatments. Almost more baffling than the illness itself will be the fact that it will suddenly vanish as quickly as it arrived, attack again ten years later, and then disappear completely.”

Another author, Dean Ray Koontz (born on July 9, 1945) also predicted the Coronavirus pandemic in his novel 'The Eyes of Darknees'. He wrote:

“To understand that,” Dombey said, “you have to go back twenty months. It was around then that a Chinese scientist named Li Chen defected to the United States, carrying a diskette record of China’s most important and dangerous new biological weapon in a decade. They call the stuff ‘Wuhan-400’ because it was developed at their RDNA labs outside the city of Wuhan, and it was the four-hundredth viable strain of man-made microorganisms created at that research center.”

This book has eerie similarities to the current global pandemic.

Is it a coincidence?
