

Nostradamus has predicted the outbreak of coronavirus

Nostradamus, a French astrologer and reputed seer, predicted the terrifying coronavirus pandemic nearly 500 years ago.

This French apothecary is known to have predicted the rise of Adolf Hitler or the Great Fire of London in 1666. But, many people are now convinced that Nostradamus tried to warn the world of the Covid-19 disease.

A member of Redit found an incredible quatrains linked to coronavirus in the book Les Propheties published in 1955.

Here the quatrain:

*“When the litters are overturned by the whirlwind,
And faces are overturned by cloaks,
The new republic will be troubled by its people.
At this time the reds and the whites will rule wrongly.”*

According to the Reddit user, this passage is a reference to people wearing face masks to lower the risk of contracting virus.

The Reddit user said:

“This first line doesn't really mean much, but the second line can be people with face masks, and the new republic (Italy) will be troubled by its people.

Could mean that their citizens are sick, and there's so many that it's giving the country a lot of trouble handling it.

The last line could be the red(communist China) and the whites (could be either the USA or Italy) will rule wrong.”

He is world famous for these amazing prophecies. Many of his predictions have come true. So, it is possible that he predicted the greatest health disaster of the 21st century...
