

Google Earth - Alien base found in Antarctica

On May 21, 2021, a veteran ufologist thinks he has discovered a mysterious alien structure in Antarctica thanks to Google Earth.

This geometric shape is so perfect that it is clearly not of natural origin. Scott C. Waring explains on his blog:

“This long structure was found on Google Earth Map and it reveals a detailed building complex that is over 66km long. The structure has many right angles and has the same thickness the whole ways. At area #3 on the screenshot, I see a larger part of the structure, probably the main hanger for vehicles...spacecraft to land. The symmetry, shadows and shape all point to this being an alien base. We need to organize an expedition there to confirm it. The expedition needs to have underground radar in case the structure has been covered up over the years by snow or ice.”
