

NDE - Woman recounts her experience in the afterlife

A woman named Shia recounted having a near-death experience following a heart attack.

She said that in the Hereafter our soul joins an infinite power, a being much greater than everything. In this other world, all of our worries and problems are gone forever.

Shia recounted her incredible experience on the NDERF website:

“I was awake but without a body. I felt weightless. Although I didn't have my physical eyes, I could see.”

“I had no worries, questions, or thoughts. I was in a dark place, like a void where time seems frozen.”

“Oddly, it seemed full of life. My view was a bit grainy, like static on a TV, but it was black. I had 360-degree view of everything.”

“For the first time, I could see clearly and far away without my glasses. It felt as if I was only a grain of sand in the infinite amount of grains that made up the 'void.’”

“I felt as if each grain had consciousness. I understood what oneness was because I was a part of it, even if just for just that moment.”

“I wasn't scared; in fact, I felt more peaceful and calm than ever. I was just taking it all in.”

“I should be terrified of this unknown and have a million questions running through my mind, but I didn't.”
