

Google Maps - Flying saucer found near Pretoria

On January 20, 2022, ufologist Scott C. Waring discovered the landing site of a metallic flying saucer in an isolated area west of Pretoria, the capital of South Africa. What is it about ?

He explains:

“I was exploring on Google Map when I came across a metallic disk landed in South Africa. It's hidden in a grove of trees and far from any city. The object looks like a classic disk with a pointed hump at its center. One photo even shows a huge circle around it...similar to that of a crop circle, but then disappears in the next photo months later. It looks like this is a landing location of an alien craft that attempted to hide its existence from the world. The pilot has created a dirt road to the area and is probably in a city nearby manipulating the direction the human race will go by introducing new technology, cures, ideas and such. This needs further investigation. We need someone on location. I'll ask around to see if it's possible to get more info on it.”
