

Several egg-shaped UFOs observed in Chad

On March 1st, 2023 at 10:36 AM, a witness in Kelo, Logone Occidental Region reported an unusual sighting in the sky. The witness reported seeing approximately 10 egg-shaped objects floating in the air, emitting a green glow. This sighting lasted for approximately 10 minutes and was accompanied by several other characteristics that are commonly associated with UFO sightings.

According to the witness report, the object left a trail as it moved through the sky, and there was an aura or haze surrounding the object. The object also changed color and made a sound. Additionally, there were aircraft in the vicinity or possibly chasing the object, which suggests that this may have been a highly unusual event.

Based on these characteristics, it is possible that this sighting was a UFO abduction case. While the idea of alien abduction is often associated with science fiction, there have been numerous documented cases of people reporting being taken by extraterrestrial beings. Of course, it is important to note that such claims are highly controversial and often difficult to verify.

It is also worth noting that sightings of unidentified flying objects are not uncommon. Many people around the world have reported seeing strange lights or objects in the sky, and while the vast majority of these sightings can be explained by natural phenomena or man-made objects, some remain unexplained.

In any case, this sighting in Kelo, Logone Occidental Region is a reminder that there is still much we don't know about the universe around us. While it is impossible to say for certain what the witness saw that day, it is clear that this was a highly unusual and memorable event.
