

Witnesses observe rectangular UFO in the United States

On September 1st at around 9pm, two witnesses were observing the sky from the Brown Mountains overlook in North Carolina when they spotted a mysterious object...

In their testimony later filed on the NUFORC (National UFO Reporting Center) website, the two observers said they saw for about 2 minutes a rectangular object slowly moving among the clouds.

Bright green in color, it was emitting a uniform light around its entire outline, as if composed of windows. Despite moving through the clouds, its shape remained identifiable. The witnesses describe it as "translucent" rather than a solid mass.

Coming from the northwest, it headed east in a smooth and silent manner, with no sign of propulsion. Estimated to be at an altitude of 10,000 feet, it made no audible sounds.

While unidentified for now, its intriguing behavior raises questions about the nature of this observation made at Brown Mountains. New witnesses are encouraged to come forward to help understand the nature of this craft that piqued the curiosity of the two onlookers.
