

A Bigfoot Sighted in Ocean City, November 2016

In November 2016, a surprising event shook the peaceful coastal town of Ocean City. A group of people gathered inside a house witnessed a mysterious creature resembling the legendary Bigfoot.

The fascinating account stems from the BFRO (Bigfoot Field Researchers Organization) website, which collects testimonials and investigates sightings of this elusive creature. According to this particular testimony, a few individuals were observing through the window of their house when they were astonished by the sight of a silhouette, measuring nearly six feet, walking away from the house.

The creature in question was described as having elongated limbs, clearly displaying non-human characteristics. Due to the low ambient lighting, it appeared in silhouette, but witnesses could discern that the body was covered in hair. It moved with hunched shoulders, seemingly without displaying any signs of distress.

Encounters with Bigfoot are often shrouded in mystery, and the Ocean City incident is no exception. The description of the creature, walking calmly without exhibiting threatening behavior, fuels speculation about the nature of such encounters. Some argue that Bigfoot could be an unknown species, yet to be discovered by science, while others consider these observations as misunderstandings or hoaxes.

Sources

- catcountry1073.com