

Unidentified Flying Object Observed in Sylvan Lake, Alberta

On the night of August 1, 2024, two residents of Sylvan Lake, Alberta (Canada), witnessed an unexplained aerial phenomenon that left a profound impression on them.

Around 12:25 AM, while observing the night sky in hopes of seeing the Northern Lights or shooting stars, their attention was drawn to an unusual flying object. According to their description, it was a dark grey triangular craft, about the size of a small bedroom.

The object, flying at high altitude - "as high as a bird can fly" according to the witnesses - was equipped with five circular lights around its perimeter. It moved slowly but at a constant speed, without emitting any sound.

The observers first saw the craft appear from the Red Deer side, flying over their house towards Rocky Mountain House. A particularly intriguing detail was reported: the rear part of the object seemed to change shape as it moved.

Frightened by this sight, one of the witnesses sent her daughter inside the house. After a few moments of hesitation, she went back out to try to catch another glimpse of the object, but it had disappeared.

This observation, which lasted about five minutes, left the witnesses perplexed and troubled. "I wish I didn't see it," one of them confided to NUFORC (National UFO Reporting Center).
