

Ritual of the Love Imprint

Required Tools

- A crimson red candle (symbolizing blood, desire, and life force)
- Parchment paper and red ink (or a feather dipped in crimson pigment)
- Cinnamon powder and dried rose petals
- A small handheld mirror

Preparing the Altar

At the hour when Venus awakens on the horizon, draw a circle of salt upon the ground. Place the red candle in the center, atop the mirror. Light the flame while staring deeply into the fire until your vision sees nothing but its glow.

On the parchment, write the full name of the one you desire, then sprinkle it with the cinnamon and rose petals.

The Latin Incantation

Hold the parchment above the candle's smoke without burning it. Look down into the mirror beneath the flame, and recite aloud in a firm, spellbinding voice:

"Per flammam rubram et cordis pulsum,

Oculi tui me videant, mens tua me somniet.

Vinculo amoris inseparabili te alligo.

Non dormies, non spirabis sine meo nomine.

Sicut cera ante ignem liquescit,

Sic voluntas tua in meo amore mergitur.

Fiat lux, fiat amor, fiat voluntas mea."

Translation of the Spell

(Keep this meaning in mind to feed your intention during the chant)

"By the red flame and the pulse of the heart,

May your eyes see me, may your mind dream of me.

I bind you with the inseparable bond of love.

You shall not sleep, nor breathe, without my name.

As wax melts before the fire,

So does your will drown in my love.

Let there be light, let there be love, let my will be done."

Closing the Ritual

Allow three drops of hot red wax to fall upon the written name on the parchment to seal the spell. Fold the parchment four times and keep it beneath your pillow for seven consecutive nights.

Upon the seventh night, the mind of your target shall be bound to your memory.

The Mage's Warning: Red magic is fiery and demanding. Do not bind a soul if your own heart falters.
