

An Apocalyptic Prophecy for 2026–2027 Goes Viral on X: What Does It Claim?

A post circulating on X has attracted significant attention after claiming to reveal a series of dramatic events that will allegedly unfold in 2026 and 2027. Shared by the account @Gdams70T, the thread presents what it describes as an "urgent prophecy" from a young boy named Jesús López, warning of the arrival of the biblical end times.

The post urges users to translate and share its contents worldwide before it is supposedly censored. However, there is no evidence that the claims are based on verified information. They reflect religious and apocalyptic beliefs rather than established facts.

The "Triad of Perversion"

The first claim centers on what the post calls the "Triad of Perversion."

According to the thread, three well-known public figures play key roles in the approaching end times:

- Elon Musk is identified as Satan.
- Jared Kushner is described as the Antichrist.
- MrBeast is portrayed as the Beast from the Book of Revelation.

The post provides no evidence to support these allegations, which are presented as prophetic interpretations rather than factual claims.

A Global Pandemic in 2027

The prophecy goes on to predict the outbreak of a devastating worldwide pandemic between January and April 2027.

It identifies the threat as a norovirus, a real virus that commonly causes outbreaks of gastroenteritis. According to the post, this virus would spread globally during the 2026 FIFA World Cup, leading to destruction on a scale comparable to the Black Death.

At present, no public health authority has issued any warning supporting such a scenario.

The Destruction of Major Cities

The thread also predicts a series of catastrophic natural disasters.

It claims that New York, described as the biblical "Babylon," along with São Paulo and Hawaii, will be destroyed. The post attributes these events to the Leviathan, a mythical sea creature mentioned in several religious texts.

It further predicts that San Francisco will be struck by a historic mega-tsunami, with waves reaching heights of up to 32 meters (105 feet).

There is currently no scientific evidence supporting these predictions.

The Giants of the Euphrates

Among the most extraordinary claims is the prediction that the fallen angels imprisoned beneath the Euphrates River will soon be released.

According to the post, these beings will emerge on Earth in the form of giants, fulfilling a prophecy linked to the Book of Revelation and other biblical passages.

This claim is based on religious interpretations and is not supported by factual evidence.

A Call to Spread the Warning

The final part of the thread urges readers to translate the message into as many languages as possible in order to warn people around the world.

It also encourages users to bookmark the post so they can compare its predictions with future events in 2026 and 2027. Finally, it suggests that the information could be censored—a common theme in conspiracy-related content designed to encourage wider sharing.

Between Prophecy and Viral Content

Predictions of the end of the world have circulated for decades, often blending biblical symbolism, conspiracy theories, political figures, and natural disasters into a single narrative.

The viral thread attributed to Jesús López follows this pattern. While it has generated discussion across social media, there is currently no evidence supporting its extraordinary claims. As with any sensational online content, readers should distinguish between personal beliefs, religious interpretations, and information that can be independently verified.

Sources

● x.com

Prophecy and 2012 - 1 août 2026 - Wakonda - CC BY 2.5